Shifting their blows to the southern arc of the sector between WARNED HIS TROOPS Soissons and Rheims, the French have struck the German line at Port-a-Binson, on the south side of the Marne and about a mile south of the village of Chatillon. It is officially reported from Paris Emperor William Took Up a Position that the French lines were advanced at that point.

Farther east, on the Champagne sector, the troops of General Gouraud have by a local operation south of Montagne Sans Nom (mountain without a name), pressed forward over half a mile along a front of nearly two miles.

The advance east of Rheims seemingly was for the purpose of battle of Rheims from a tower which restoring the allied line in that section of the battle front. The attack at Port-a-Binson, however, had another object. German troops were reported early in the week at Marfaux and Pourcy, northeast of Chatillon and south of the western spurs of Rheims mountain. A considerable success near Chatillon would put them tower. ENEMY PUNISHED BY ARTILLERY FIRE

MAN WOUNDED Germans Have Been Almost Cleared Out of the Wooded Areas

> With the American Army on the Aisne-Marne Front, July 27 .-- ((8:30 a. m.)-By Associated Press)-The Franco-American forces on the front northeast of Chateau Thierry have driven the Germans almost entirely out of the wooded area which they have been so stubbornly defending. The allied pressure is being constantly maintained, and early to-day the punishment of the enemy by artil-lery fire was resumed with added vigor. Under the cover of the guns the Franco-American troops again began crawling

The advance is bringing the allies still nearer to the important road junction of Fere-en-Tardenois. It is being carried out through the remainder of the dense woods in this region and over the rain-soaked fields and hills on their outskirts. Slowly retreating, the Germans are fight ing stubbornly as they retire.

Persistent as was the German rear guard defense, however, the enemy's most intensive efforts to hold his lines still are being put forth on his flanks in the Rheims and Soissons regions.

How Germans Treat French Homes. Baroness Huard, an American girl who married a Frenchman, save in an article in the August American Magazine: "Compared with what happened else where, the story of our little village is actually a bright one! The evacuation was so hurried at that point that the Germans did not have time for their usual systematic and atrocious work of destruction. However, the nine days diers. they spent there were black enough.

"The officers and the soldiers made victims of every woman in the village-from little girls of only ten years, to old women who were so afflicted physically that any man should have pitied them even if he did not feel repulsion toward them. This I say out of my own knowledge, for it happened in my village and these women and little girls were per sonally known to me. Mine was only one of hundreds of towns to which the Germans came; and, as I said before, its story is one of the least horrible. But bring it home to yourselves; if you want to know the kind of enemies we are fighting. How would you like them to come to your town!"
